

AWAY FROM HOME

NEWRY CORNER

Mrs. Sophronia Ilsley Corbett.
This community was saddened by the sudden death of Sophronia Ilsley, wife of Jacob Corbett, Tuesday, Dec. 22. She had been in her usual health and after doing her work for the day, spent the evening knitting. She was taken ill soon after retiring and before anyone could be summoned, passed to the higher life.

The doctor pronounced it heart failure. She was a most estimable woman, a devoted wife and mother. She leaves besides her husband, six children, Mrs. Asa West of Rumford, Mrs. Wm. Thurston of Errol, N. H., Mrs. Charles Robinson, Newry, Mrs. Lillian McDonald and Mrs. Ernest Goud of Dummer, N. H., and Leslie Corbett of Newry.

The funeral was Friday, conducted by Rev. J. H. Little of Bethel, who spoke in the most sympathetic and comforting manner. The flowers were very beautiful.

33 PER CENT MORE EFFICIENT.

If People Pay Small Bills.
"If people, who are able to do so, would pay their small bills," said a Norway merchant, "business would be 33 per cent more efficient and the public could buy more cheaply than at present."
"I don't refer," said he, "to people who are in absolute need but to men and women, abundantly able to pay, who put you off or decline to settle accounts ranging from 25c to $5 and $10. There is no great money in the individual account of 25c or 50c or a dollar. It can't show a great margin of profit at best. Suppose a man owes you a bill of $1.69, as one man does whom I have in mind. On that bill which was a mark-down article, there was practically nothing but first cost. It should have been a cash transaction—all bargain sales should be cash. I have billed that out to the man six times a 2c a letter postage. In time taken to bill and cost of postage and stationery, I have spent at least fifteen cents. I haven't gotten the money yet. This is the first year in several that I have kept a collector out for these bills. We have to pay his wage. Is it right? Is it fair? Didn't I deliver those goods to that customer fair and square. Didn't I do my part of the contract. What does he do to return. Puts me off. Says to me or to my collector, 'I'll look the matter up.' Now what's the use, looking the matter up. He knows he owes it. He knows I know he owes it. He is simply doing me an injustice that he feels and knows. He knows he ought to pay. He can pay. Why doesn't he? Simply because that is his habit."
"Now, what else happens," continued he, "I'll tell you. Out of every ten men whom you ask to pay a bill of small denomination one of them comes back at you mad. 'Don't you think I'm good for it?' asks he. You may perhaps lose him as a customer or friend. Why? Because you ask him for a bill for which you need payment. We have out a thousand small accounts. In the aggregate they are very burdensome. And what is worse most of those people with you and trade elsewhere until they are clear on your books. I tell you it is hard. I wish people who can pay, would pay. I wish they would appreciate the situation in which the retailer stands to the customer. I wish they knew how deeply we regret the hour and the day when we are forced to send out the statement with the request 'please remit' or to send forth the collector with his bills in hand. It is no fun for us."
"Then why," concluded the merchant, "will not the buying public look at this thing in the right way? Can't we all begin 1915 by turning over a new leaf and be able and declaring that we will pay all bills when presented as far as we are able. Make this a positive rule. Business would be better; customers would feel better; dealers would do better by customers and by themselves. It is wrong, unsatisfactory to spend 10c collecting a 25c account and it is shamefully wrong for any man to evade paying a 50c bill. Very likely he may keep putting aside the payment while he is smoking his 50c pipe of cigars every day. He says to himself 'it's nothing.' But it is not 'nothing' when on the books of the man whom he owes are a thousand and small bills of the same kind in sums from a quarter to $10. I say that the next big reform in business efficiency is to come either by the elimination of the small credit or the reform on the part of the creditor by a well-kept cash to a customer and on the first statement thereof not to consider said statement as a 'dum' or an insult or a question as to the customer's credit."

This paper contained the 89th number of "Norway in the Forties", written by Dr. O. N. Bradbury. It is a valuable history of this town.
Chas. B. Cummings' bear was shot by Thomas Everett, who demanded the State bounty of $5, but as bruin was not killed by him the bounty was refused. Todd filled out papers and made the demand and the bounty was paid.
Recalls Artemas Ward.
Hon. Fabius M. Ray, of Westbrook, still recalls very vividly Charles Farrar Browne, known to the world as Artemas Ward, but then an apprentice in the office of the Norway Advertiser. Browne was full of wit, with odd and unsuspected, and generally very unconventional turns of thought, and his acquaintance with him soon to be famous "showman" did not extend over many weeks, a single term, in fact, at the Norway Liberal Institute, then under the charge of Mark H. Dunnell, who was destined as an editor, State superintendent of schools, collector of a Maine regiment, and congressman from Minnesota, to fill a large place in many ways. The boy from South Windham, (Fabius M. Ray) was taken to the school and left with a dollar and a half of pocket money, and he was expected to make it last him during the next eleven weeks.
It was a good thing for him that he was rather poorly supplied with change because at first the natural curiosity of a boy from a country town to see a printing office led him to go to that the Norway Advertiser, then owned and edited or supposed to be, by Cyrus Brown, and there he met for the first time Charles Farrar Browne, his brother, and he still recalls the blond young fellow, tall and slim, with a droll expression, a big nose, and well oiled hair.
Later Fabius found that he could earn, if not easily collect, a weekly stipend by inking the type on the clumsy hand press while the future humorist worked off the edition of the Norway Advertiser.
He returned home and saw young Browne no more, and was half way through his course at Bowdoin, when he found himself laughing with the jokes of the world, as he said, at the jests of Artemas Ward, and he was not surprised when he learned that the author was none other than the apprentice of the Norway Advertiser. Office, then connected with the Cleveland Dispatch.
A few years ago there were a number in Portland who recalled Artemas Ward well, but death has taken them one by one, but Judge Ray still remembers many incidents connected with his acquaintance with Charles Farrar Browne, and that the latter felt some degree of interest in his boyish friend, was shown by his sending him a copy of the paper after it had passed into the hands of Mr. Dunnell, who gained some experience by his connection with the enterprise, but lost some money.

Maine Baldwin Apple.

Mark Gammon of Norway tells us there is a variety of apples originating in this State called the Baldwin. It comes from a native tree on the farm of Benjamin Larabee in the town of Baldwin and it was a nice apple somewhat longer than the Massachusetts variety.
Mr. Gammon remembers the talk about this particular tree and variety of apple sixty years ago. Many of the Baldwin trees in Scarborough, Windham and Raymond comes from scion from this tree.

Basket Ball.

The Norway High school won the basketball game from the Mohawks of Lewiston with a score of 91 to 3.
The game was not very exciting as the Mohawks were slow and it was too sided. There was a large attendance at the dance after the game with Milliken's Orchestra for music.

The recent guests of Thomas Thibodeau and family, and O. M. Cummings, were Mr. and Mrs. Irving Thibodeau, of Medford, Mass., and Earle Thibodeau, who is teaching at Norton, Mass.
Hugh Bethell of Lewiston has been visiting his mother, Mrs. Jas. Wright.
Thursday afternoon the largest number of mail bags were ushered into the postoffice during the Christmas rush, being 30 pouches. Twenty-three were sent out Wednesday afternoon.
Francis Swett spent his Christmas vacation at his home.
Mrs. Lee M. Smith went to Portland, Monday, where she underwent a surgical operation at the Eye and Ear Infirmary.

PE-RU-NA
The Traveler's Companion

Mr. Arthur L. Pierce, 2618 Sheridan Ave., St. Louis, Mo. "The curative value of Pe-Ru-NA is wonderfully wonderful. I think it especially valuable as a specific for catarrh of the system, and for a man who has traveled for years as I have and who is certainly exposed to irregular meals and uncomfortable sleeping accommodations, Pe-Ru-NA is one of his best and most needed traveling companions. It throws off disease and keeps him well. I therefore heartily recommend it." Those who object to liquid medicines can now procure Pe-Ru-NA Tablets.

LOCKE'S MILLS.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Rand entertained Mr. and Mrs. sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Brewster of Lewiston, on Christmas day.
Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Brown of Bethel were Friday guests of his mother, Mrs. Clara Brown.
Mr. L. T. Tibbets and two sons, Donald and Lester, of Auburn dined with her son, C. B. Tibbets, and family Friday.

Mrs. Bell Chase of Portland visited with her mother, Mrs. O. W. Brown, on Christmas day.
Mr. and Mrs. Charles Herriek and two children, Elsie and Merton, of Norway, are guests at E. P. Farrington's for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Davis of Portsmouth, N. H., are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Swan, for a few days.
The Christmas tree at the church on Thursday evening was well attended. An interesting program was given. The two trees were well laden with gifts for old and young.
Elizabeth Swift of Lewiston visited with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Swift, the week-end.

SOUTH PARIS.

Mabel Hathaway, the teaching-in Rockport, Mass., is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theron F. Hathaway.
Mrs. Stanley Wheeler has been visiting relatives in Portland for a few days.

Not All "Howling Wilderness."

That Maine is pictured as a howling wilderness by strangers who receive the advertising issued by transportation companies, is not surprising. For example: "The area of the State of Maine is 33,000 square miles. Pullman cars run right into the heart of the State. No wonder that tourists are the idea that they will be able to shoot deer from the car window as soon as they leave Portland. As an actual fact, two gentlemen from the Middle States, coming to the Twin City from Portland last summer, were absolutely astounded to see such evidences of civilization in what they supposed was a wilderness. They roamed in the forest primeval all sorts of wild beasts and big game. Where did they get such erroneous ideas? From railroad literature. Listen: "Twenty big hotels and a thousand log cabin camps. * * * One camp has 100 bears in nine years. * * * Three hunters shot three moose without moving from their traps, etc."
All true, no doubt, but why do not these circulars also mention the thriving cities and towns of Maine as well as the 20,000 miles of wild land; and the numerous hotels—a credit to any state as well as the thousand log camps and a paltry twenty traps which are dignified by the name of hotels.

The Boon Maine magazine should get after the publicity men of the Maine railroads and secure their co-operation in disseminating the idea that outside of the coast settlements Maine is nothing more than a vast hunting ground.
Some of the prevailing ideas about Maine are absolutely ridiculous, and almost unbelievable. A gentleman, on completing his arrangements for a trip East, asked a friend if there were any barber shops in Maine where he could get a decent shave. He was absolutely of the Maine woods literature.
The railroads in the zeal for patronage are not dealing fairly by the citizens of Maine. They are minimizing the wonderful industrial development of the State, by emphasizing its grand beauty, its natural resources, grand beyond the power of description, it is true; but while they are dilating upon its 20,000 miles of wild land they should not forget to tell of the busy cities and thriving towns, the prosperous farms and happy homes, the religious, educational and social institutions which upon the other side of the State make Maine a State dear to the hearts of its natives, and one to which they welcome with pride the stranger with his preconceived ideas of a region inhabited by trappers, guides and mossbacks.

Let Your Light Shine.
The man who thinks things, thinks that in all places the custom of illuminating the home on New Year's eve might be in vogue. A light in every room with the curtains open, giving full ray of light out of doors is the rule. If thinks that people coming along the highway might consider that a new star of good will was surely rising.

Union Christmas Tree.
The Congregational and Free Baptist Sunday Schools united and had Christmas trees in the Grange hall. The hall was filled with parents and friends of the children who presented the delightful musicals or cantata. The real Santa Claus, with the following cast:
Mollie, Alice Smith
Trump, who afterwards turns out to be Santa Claus, Josephine Ricker, Mrs. Rollins
Frol. Big Wig, Arthur Libby
Laura, Clarence Packard
Leah, Helene Pitts
Tom, Ralph Stearns
Horace, Charles Glover
Mother-in-law, Dorothy Pitts
Anna, Mildred Martin
All of the parts were well taken and the children deserve great praise for their excellent performance. The Cook's chorus, Foot Ball Boys of the Grange, and all showed splendid training and work. The flower girls were especially dainty and sweet.

The committees in charge of the cantata were, Mrs. H. R. Dennison, Mrs. Rollins, Josephine Ricker, and Mrs. Marshall Pitts.
Among the children who took part were, Doris Knight, Lida Harmon, Shirley Harmon, Bernice Libby, Gladys Legg, Marna Greene, Lucille Kneeland, Edna Fogg, Kathleen Abby, Irene Libby, Marion Abbott, Melba Stuart, Meserve Burnham, Alice Stearns, Dora Martha Caswell, Ruth Jordan, Helen Caswell, Ellis Carsley, Lida Carsley, Phillis Fogg, Esther Rollins, Evelyn Whitney, Henry Walker, Eugene Tamney, Ruth Pitts, Harold Gustin, Linton Harmon, Dorothy Whitney, Doris Brown, Thelma Brown, Margery Burnham and Margaret Libby. Pianist, Mildred Dudley.

OTISFIELD GORE.
Grange observed Young People's night with a good attendance in spite of the cold.
The following program was given:
Chorus, Grace Grover
Reading, Mildred and Bertha Rurell
Elocution, Laurence Rowe
Reading, Ernest Thurlow
Chorus, Ernest Wardwell
The next meeting will be an all day session with installation of officers.
It was voted to invite Crooked River Grange to their next meeting to be held Jan. 9th.

Mrs. Willie Brett entertained her mother, Mrs. Alice Brett, and her sisters, Rena and Mary, also her brothers, Carl, Leland and Howard Brett, from South Harrison, Christmas.
Willie Brett's brother Stanley is at home for a vacation from Tamworth, N. H.
Mansfield Holman entertained Mr. and Mrs. Orin Holman and children from Stratford, N. H., and Mr. and Mrs. Snow from Mechanic Falls at Christmas. Sherman Pingree was at home from Bates College through the Christmas vacation.

Mrs. Ida F. Grover entertained her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Gould from South Paris at Christmas.

An Object Lesson in Human Efficiency.

There is one reason why Germany should win in its present contest with the Allies.
As an object lesson in human efficiency. For forty years Germany has been devoted to plain common sense, while the rest of the world has been devoting too much time to sentimental nonsense. The result is that Germany is in the lead in everything commendable.

Not only are a hundred thousand of its soldiers able to whip two hundred thousand Englishmen, Frenchmen or Russians; its working men are more efficient; its farmers are more efficient; its scholars are more efficient; in commerce and manufacturing it leads conspicuously; its philosophy.

Its children are the best behaved in the world; its women the most efficient. There are no Camp Fire Girls in Germany to encourage neglect of homes; no Boy Scouts to tramp over the country when they should be learning trades or in school.

The brutal, unlawful acts of the English Suffragettes could not be duplicated in Germany.

Business is not an outlaw in Germany, and respectable working men are not chased to amuse loafers.

Age of Revivals.

In the embroidery world this is an age of revivals. First came the revival of the cross-stitch. Naturally there followed the renaissance of Queen Anne embroideries, which are of the cross-stitch variety. Elizabethan embroidery worked in long stitch on fine white linen has also been revived.

Renewed interest is being taken in old-fashioned patchwork quilting. Colonial bedrooms are not considered complete unless they contain pieced quilts such as were in vogue a generation ago.

BROWNFIELD.

Everybody attended the Union Christmas tree at the Town Hall, Thursday evening. The tree was prettily decorated and well loaded with presents.

Irvin Hodson made a jolly Santa Claus. The entertainment was furnished by the schools in charge of their several teachers.

It was fine. An interesting part of the program was an exhibition of first aid to the injured by the Boy Scouts.

The thermometer registered 35 and 40 degrees in the coldest part of the town, Saturday morning.

Susie Garland, who teaches in Jefferson, N. H., is spending the Christmas holidays at home.

Mrs. Wm. Brooks is ill with a bad cold. Mrs. Wm. is busy harvesting ice, which is very clear and thick this year.

MASON.

Nellie Garvey of Sumner, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. E. A. Grover, has returned home.

Almon R. Grover of Gorham is at work in the woods for his brother, Eli A. Grover.

Fred E. Wheeler of Norway is at work for T. A. Morrill, saving pulp, on the landing.

Dana Hall of Bethel and a drover from Auburn were in town looking after live stock.

Marion Bean is visiting friends and relatives in Lewiston and Auburn.

J. A. McKenzie was at home Sunday from his work in Albany.

WORK THREE-FOURTHS DONE.

That was planned for 1914.

Of the 131.65 miles of State highway which the Maine State Highway Department contracted to build this year, 98.73 miles had been completed on November 16. This is exactly three-fourths of the work laid out and construction was continued in some parts of the State as long as the favorable weather lasted.

The Oxford county important piece of work was nearing completion, that between Fryeburg and Bridgton where of the six and nine-tenths miles, 94 per cent. had been completed and the whole contract was wound up during November.

Try This for Neuralgia.

Thousands of people keep on suffering with Neuralgia because they do not know what to do for it. Neuralgia is a pain in the nerves. What you want to do is to soothe the nerve itself. Apply Sloan's Liniment to the surface over the painful part—do not rub it in. Sloan's Liniment penetrates very quickly to the source, irritated nerve and allays the inflammation. Get a bottle of Sloan's Liniment for 25 cents of any druggist and have it in the house—again Golds, Sore and Stiffed joints, Lumbago, Sciatica and like ailments. Your money back if not satisfied, but it does give almost instant relief.
